NO MORE.

To most no more, I hoped that sent was set upon the pest, I hoped that you and I had looked our last, Till life was o'er.

Not, oh, my friend, That you can stir one quiet pulse of mine, No words can ever join the broken line, Time traced "the end."

Not that my name

Rut in its roign,

In heart and head.

Can bid your heart one instant faster beat; No fair old folly blind youth found so awest, Such power to claim. The idle droam

Passed, as the morning mist will roll away, ... When on its fairly veil of sweeping gray, Full sunlights gleam:

Idle although it was, and false, and brief, Came many an idle hopr of baseloss grief, Camo many a pain. Its charm has fled, But round it hangs the memory of its woo, Jarring the sweet notes of the long ago,

I fain had left unturned the silly page I fain had left untouched the dust of ago To gather gray. And thick, and fast Lipon the coffer of the faded flowers, We plucked and flung away in those wild hours,

Whose spell has passed. In calm content, .. Blost in our sobered joys, apart we stand, I want no spectre from the shadow land, Of fancios spent.

And so I say, Smooth be your path, your sky from cloudlets free But let life's river roll 'twixt you and me. E'on as to-day. -All the Year Round.
